

Andrew Neil Releases 'Sunny Side' 6-15-21

Review Track: "Lemonade"

Reviewer: Mary Wood, Founder @BreconReviews

Brecon Indie Reviewer Team

I am way hyped up for this album release and even more jumped up about the musical talents of Andrew Neil.

This incredible young man, who has been through so much adversity and pain, uniquely chooses to see and live within extra-ordinary light he sees from the contrasting abyss in which he has spent a great deal of time.

During the most abysmal periods of his life his inner spirit proved to be incredibly strong with beautiful innocence and a great capacity for empathy.

Andrew's songwriting is born of extreme hardship and it threads in genuine, life enlightenment.

Andrew's songwriting is so uninhibited, dripping out from raw imagination that a Kirk Cobain flashback is a must mention. Several team reviewers noted Nirvana in their reviews. Like Andrew, I am a huge fan of the late Cobain and I love Nirvana.

There are so many great lyrics in, "Lemonade." One of my absolute favorites that would end in a cliché from too many songwriters; Andrew slays it:

"Live with love the world is ours,
Lookin' up you see the stars,
Masterpiece painted with scars."

Andrew is a self-taught singer, guitarist and artist, who has the courage to deliver music stripped down with no inhibition, from the pen through the performance.

"Lemonade," is only one of the great tracks on Andrew's newly released album, 'Sunny Side'.

At the beginning of the song, his voice caused a whiplash flashback to Bob Dylan. Cool thing- he changes up every song element throughout the song including great vocal nuances that rather howl, within a vocal register that is an undulating force and distinctive from what I have heard.

A big-time musician once said,

"When you sing stripped down, there's nowhere to hide."

Only the most elite and passionate artists pull this off, both recording and performing with wide open gates; Andrew is one.

Andrew Neil is the type of artist for whom I wait; he, especially, brings it like none other and I buzz on that!