

Seven and Counting - "Stranded"

Review By: Brass Monkey

Brecon Indie Reviewer Team

Seven and Counting are back with their brand new single "Stranded."

Coming to you from Croatia with a distinct US feel this new offering will pour into your ears like honey. Happy garage guitar is immediately nudged by country horns to give an upbeat honky-tonk feel. The optimistic sound contrasts with the love lost lyrics, including a reference to the masks we all wear.

The feeling of trying to make sense of the hole in your life when someone leaves it unexpectedly plays a central part but the track's momentum and energy spin into something you could kick your heels to with a cold beer on a warm night.

"Stranded" is replete with a classic guitar solo in the bridge, as well as high quality backing vocals throughout. The male & female vocals blend beautifully with each other perfectly.

The production value of this song is top notch.

If you like upbeat country, you'll like "Stranded" by Seven and Counting, out now!