

Jennifer Mlott – Firestorm

Review by Brass Monkey

Brecon Indie Review Team

2021 ISSA Entertainer of the Year, Jennifer Mlott, is back with her latest single "Firestorm!"

Opening with surreal, sustained summer-beach chords, overlaid with a choppy rhythmic guitar, "Firestorm" gets into the meat of the track quickly. Jennifer's ever so slightly breathy vocals come in within a few bars for a subtle but satisfying introduction building into the first verse.

However, the first verse is only slightly less subdued, continuing to build tension until the full energy of the song is released in the first chorus along with suddenly heavy drums. Hints of Blondie with a nod to Joan Jett begin to come across and an echo of the chorus drums carry into the other verses to maintain the energy.

Overall, this track encourages multiple replays. Whether you're already a fan of Jennifer Mlott or you've been hiding under a rock, get online & have a listen!